

Dow becomes the Official Carbon Partner of the Sochi Games 2014

Dow, Worldwide Partner and the Official Chemistry Company of the Olympic Games, has been announced as the Official Carbon Partner of the Sochi 2014 Organising Committee.

The Company will be responsible for the mitigation of the direct carbon footprint attributed to the Organising Committee given its responsibility to host and deliver the Games. This footprint will be mitigated through the implementation of energy-efficient technologies, with improved greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions performance in the key areas of infrastructure, industry and agriculture. All projects will be implemented in the Russian Federation, generating savings and long-lasting benefits to the host country's economy.
