

CA Technologies Releases Latest Sustainability Report

CA Technologies latest sustainability report outlines how our company is furthering its corporate social responsibility (CSR) efforts. The report covers our progress through the 2014 calendar year, with highlights from the beginning of 2015, and was drafted in accordance with the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) G4 Core guidelines and incorporates the Ten Principles of the UN Global Compact.

This report outlines our process for engaging with stakeholders, which includes CA Technologies materiality assessment. Ongoing formal engagement assists with our interactions with companies, investors, environmental organizations, public interest groups and governments that seek to address global challenges. As part of this process, we have assessed our most material environmental, social and economic impacts and have aligned our reporting accordingly.

At CA Technologies, our sustainability strategy is built on a strong value system and a principled approach to doing business. This means operating in ways that meet fundamental responsibilities in the areas of human rights, labor, environment and anti-corruption. From operational efficiency and STEM education, to employee engagement and diversity and inclusion, this report highlights our efforts that reinforce this approach and signal our commitment to sustainable business.
