

Gifts of Energy an Ideal Way to Help Others on Giving Tuesday

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 28 /CSRwire/ - Gifts of Energy from Consumers Energy offer a convenient solution for those who want to help others this Giving Tuesday. Giving Tuesday (#GivingTuesday) is a global day where people are encouraged to donate time, goods or their voice in order to assist those in need.

“Consumers Energy employees receive a lot of satisfaction from giving back to their communities by contributing both their time and our money to worthy causes,” said Brandon Hofmeister, Consumers Energy’s senior vice president of governmental, regulatory and public affairs. “We are happy to make it easy for anyone to experience the joy of giving through our offering of Gifts of Energy certificates.”

Gifts of Energy fit well with the theme of Giving Tuesday because they can be given anonymously to a person or organization to help someone in need pay their Consumers Energy electric or gas energy bill.

Whether it is a neighbor, family member, service provider or a person in need identified through a charitable organization, place of worship, service club or emergency responders such as police and fire, Gifts of Energy are an easy and simple way to make a difference.

Some facts about Gifts of Energy. They:

- Never expire.
- Are available in amounts of $10, $25 and $50.
- Can be mailed with a Consumers Energy bill payment or applied to an energy bill at a Consumers Energy bill payment location. The amount is deducted from the bill total.
- Cannot be redeemed for cash.
